ENLIGHTENED HIM

Why the Steamer Courier Raised Steam Yesterday

Yesterday noon a crowd of idle men were standing on Wes Lee's corner discussing the weather, river, and politics. Among the number happened to be a rural brother who was absorbing the intellectual feast with the avidity of a sponge absorbing water.

One of the wise men happened to notice smoke coming out of the chimneys of the steamer Courier lying at the foot of Market street, and interrogated as to the whyfore.
Just at this juncture a Chesterfield in the person of George Griffin appeared on the scene and without solicitation proceeded to enlighten the benighted assembly.

"Why," says the encyclopedia, or walking bureau of information—

"The Courier is getting up steam to go up and pump the water out of the ice piers!"

"How's that?" meekly asked the man from the backwoods, as he edged his way closer to the circle.

The explanation was graciously repeated, when the seeker after knowledge mildly interrogated.

"What's that for?"

"Well," says George, "when the water is all pumped out the piers will rise up above the water and push the ice out in the middle of the river."

"Is that so?" remarked Mr. Hayseed.

"Fact," remarked George, as he walked off down Second looking wise and self-confident of his ability as a pun-maker.

Irresistible Embroideries

their charm lies in their utter difference from embroideries of other seasons. Many of them you would mistake for laces—so frequently is the Venise lace idea introduced.

The medallion idea, by the way, is very popular in distinction to continuous running patterns. And there are many combinations of Mexican drawn work effects with the raised or buttonhole embroidery.

Bandings will enjoy greatest favor. Many are on fine batiste, others are on linen. Then of course there are edgings, insertions, demi-frouces and allover, some of which come in sets that match throughout.

The collection is so varied we can't give details—prices range from 5c to $2½ yard.

MANY SORTS.

In affirming the case of Quaintance vs. Farmers Mutual Aid Association, taken up from Fleming county, the Court of Appeals, Judge Nunn delivering the opinion, said—

Fire Insurance Association—Salary of Officer.—Where appellant and four others obtained a charter authorizing them to organize and operate a fire insurance company, and where all persons insured became members, the charter being silent as to the subject of salaries, and the President being compensated by receiving $2 from each member as he would insure, the officials of the association, in the absence of such power being conferred upon them by the charter, had no power or authority to fix compensation of an officer of the company.

The Ellsworth-Jackson Killing at Alexandria, Va., in 1861.

So far as advised, the shooting of Colonel Ephraim Elmer Ellsworth by James T. Jackson, and the instantaneous bayoneting of Jackson by Sergeant Francis E. Brownell, was the first bloodshed—was inaugural of the great War between the states. It occurred on the morning of 24th May, 1861, at the Marshall House, King street, Alexandria, Va., of which Jackson was the proprietor.

At the time of which I write the Fifth Auditor's Office at Washington was well nigh decimated by resignations, I alone remaining of those familiar with official routine. In consequence I became Auditor pro tem at the request of Secretary Chase, holding the Bureau together till an acceptable successor could be chosen and installed. I finally resigned, took my little family within the Confederate lines in Virginia, and was returning to Washington to finally arrange some affairs.

As had been my custom I stopped at the Marshall House. Within the week or ten days last past the situation at and about Washington had changed somewhat. While still something panicky and unstable, something like order had been restored and a crude system of operations inaugurated. The transport Harriet Lane, with troops, had passed Alexandria and arrived at the capital despite the threats of the Confederates to sink her; Massachusetts and New York troops had rushed into the city, and Alexandria was occupied by five or six thousand Federal soldiers. The grand skedaddle of a week before was a "free for all and devil take the hindmost." I was now confronted by Federal bayonets and a demand for the counter-signal at every turn.

In wandering over the venerated town I had encountered squads of soldiers in blue making merry over captured Confederate flags, and was at desk of Marshall House telling Jackson of this and, with others, suggesting, as a prudential measure in the existing fevered state of things, that he remove the offensive emblem floating from his hotel.

Jackson was a remarkably mild-mannered, self-contained man—one of the last to be suspected of an act of desperation. But there was something forceful in his reply to friendly admonitions, in this: "I put that flag over my own house and I'll take it down when I get ready. If any man attempts to haul it down without my consent I'll kill him on the spot!"

Just at this juncture three or four Federal soldiers, singing patriotic songs, entered from King street, their arms full of captured flags. Without a word to any one or seeming thought of trouble they filed through the lower hall, passed the office and made their way to the fifth floor above, their object being plain to all. Jackson was leaning against the counter, with an expression of countenance simply impossible to describe in words. It was a striking picture just here—intensely dramatic, with an uncanny foreboding of the tragedy soon to be enacted.

For a moment Jackson dropped his head upon his breast,—he was suffering from a "crick" in his neck and had tied a white handkerchief about his throat, holding his head, per force, to one side,—then walked a few paces behind the counter, picked up a double-barrelled shotgun, advanced to the entrance of the hall from the office, and stood in calm waiting. To me there was something ominous in all this, and I crossed the hall taking my stand just within the parlor door, heartily wishing myself in the street; but I could not get there for the crowd.

At the same moment, the soldiers upon their return from the roof, came in sight, the leader being Colonel Ellsworth of the New York Fire Zouaves, whom I recognized by his peculiar uniform as seen at his drills in Washington. He was followed by three or four more, all singing and making merry.

Ellsworth had reached the second or third step from the first floor in the stairway, when Jackson bounded like a tiger into the hall, discharged both barrels of his gun into the breast of Ellsworth, who fell dead without a groan. Quick as a flash the soldier next in line, later proving to be Sergeant Brownell, sprang to the front, and thrusting his bayonet through the breast of Jackson, bore him down and literally pinioned him to the floor. Attracted by the now general uproar, Mrs. Jackson, wife of the unfortunate proprietor, with babe in her arms, came from the adjoining parlor, and seeing her husband writhing in his death agony, uttered one piercing shriek and fell as one dead.

Scenes like unto this became as an "oft told tale" in the later days of the fearful strife; but on the threshold it tried men's souls, be assured. And then the criminal folly of it all! Not one issue determined, nor so much as thought of in the bloody drama, curtaining myriad hearthstones with woe and draping the starry emblem with sable even in the palmy hour of victory!

Maysville, Ky., January 20th, 1904.

At Cincinnati the Court has been asked to declare void the marriage of James Taylor and Miss Marian Decima Spooner who eloped and were wedded in this city last December. The groom was only 19 years of age, while the bride is much older, and the reason given by Taylor's father for filing a divorce suit was that his son lacked mental capacity to contract marriage.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO THE PEOPLE OF MAYSVILLE.

From J. C. Pecor, Our Well-Known Druggist.

To Whom It May Concern:

Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in Maysville in regard to advertised medicines and their value—the papers are full of them.

We want to say to every man, woman and child in Maysville that we believe the most valuable preparation of cod liver oil—the best tonic reconstructor, health restorer and strength creator—we have ever sold in our store is Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, it contains no injurious drugs, and it actually does contain all of the medicinal curative elements taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work, and, moreover, it is delicious to the taste.

Vinol acts first upon the stomach, tones up the digestive organs, creates an appetite, purifies and enriches the blood and strengthens every organ in the body to do its work as nature intended.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength creator for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers and after a severe sickness.

Vinol cures hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Unequaled to create an appetite and to make those who are too thin fat, rosy and healthy.

Vinol is sold everywhere on a positive guarantee that, if it does not give satisfaction, the entire purchase money will be refunded. J. C. Pecor, Druggist.

Society Women
The Grand-Niece of
U. S. PRESIDENT JAMES K. POLK
MRS. IDA ROSER,
Induced to Relate Her Experience for Benefit of Other Women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been married for nearly two years, and so far have not been blessed with a child. I have, however, suffered with a complication of female troubles and painful menstruation, until very recently.

"The value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was called to my attention by an intimate friend, whose life had simply been a torture with inflammation and ulceration, and a few bottles of your Compound cured her; she can hardly believe it herself to-day, she enjoys such blessed health. I took four bottles of your Compound and consider myself cured. I am once more in fine health and spirits; my domestic and official duties all seem easy now, for I feel so strong I can do three times what I used to do. You have a host of friends in Denver, and among the best count, Yours truly, MRS. IDA L. ROSER, 326 E. 18th Ave., Denver, Col."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

seems to be the universal woman's medicine for the high and low, rich and poor; and why not? The organism of all women is alike, and the society woman is just as susceptible to the ills of womanhood as are her less favored sisters, but owing to their inherent distaste for advertised articles will resort to all other methods for a cure first. Yet it is a fact worth recording that Mrs. Pinkham is constantly receiving letters from women of high social position, saying as a last resort and without any faith, they tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and were completely cured by it. She actually has thousands of such letters.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to these women. No woman should suffer with such a remedy at hand.

SPECIAL ADVICE TO YOUNG WOMEN FREE.
From a vast experience in treating female ills, extending over 20 years, Mrs. Pinkham has gained a knowledge which is of untold value to every ailing young woman. Her advice is very sure to help. If you need such help, write her. She will be glad to answer you confidentially and free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

deaths are caused by it—heart dis-

heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs,

will break down and waste away cell by almost always result from a derangement

a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys.
If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver

It corrects inability to hold urine and calding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraor-

It stands the highest

River News

The Delaware river, like the Ohio, has been closed to navigation for some time.

A harbor is being blasted in the ice at the mouth of the Little Kanawha river.

The Boaz is on her way from New Orleans to Louisville with a big tow of empties.

Captain D. W. Woodward succeeds H. W.
Fairfield in command of the J. C. Risher.

Captain Dan Parr, who was found dead at his home in Louisville Wednesday, leaves a fortune of $500,000.

The stocks of the merchants in some towns along the river are running low, and unless the river is soon open to navigation many families will be unable to secure even provisions.

The National Board of Trade, in session at Washington, indorsed the Ohio river improvement project after a vigorous protest from George Anderson of Pittsburgh against a motion to recommit the resolution.

Prospects seem to be brightening somewhat for the clearing of the river of the ice which has suspended navigation for two months.
The break in the gorge here was most satisfactory, doing no damage whatever.

GERMAN SYRUP.
We want to impress on our readers that Boschee's German Syrup is positively the only preparation on the market today that does relieve and cure consumption. It contains the specific, such as pure tar, extracts of gum, etc., which have been so highly indorsed for the cure of coughs, colds and consumption by the great medical congresses.
The consumptive, whether his disease is in the throat or lungs, must have rest at night, and be free from the spasm of dry and racking cough in the morning. The diseased parts want rest, heating and soothing treatment, and the patient needs fresh air, good food, etc. German Syrup will give free and easy expectoration in the morning with speedy and permanent relief. Small bottles, 25c; regular size, containing nearly four times as much, 75c. At Henry W. Ray's Drugstore.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol
Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: "After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured."

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.
